THE PUBLIC LIBRARIES ON SUNDAY. A jetition, numerously signed by citizens, is seen to be presented to the Library Committee of the United States Senate, praying Congress to the United States Senate, praying Congress to order the opening of the Congressional and Smithsonian libraries on Sundays from 9 o'clock a.m. to 3 or 4 p.m. In several of our farge cities East and West this plan of opening public libraries on Sunday having been tried, is said to be well approved by all classes of people. There is a strong argument in favor of the Horaries belonging to the General Government here being so opened, as it would accommodate a large class of Government employees, to say nothing of numerous private citieses, whose official or private duties preclude the possibility of their frequenting any of these libraries during the hours and days they are now opened.

SHOCKING ACCIDENT.

A WOMAN CRUSHED TO DEATH BY A Yesterday afternoon, as the train which left Baltimore at 320 arrived at Annapolis Innetion, Mary Johnson, a b fight mulat o waman between nineteen and twenty years of age, got off and attempted to cross the track for the puroff and attempted to cross the track for the purpore of proceeding to her home. was John Barr. Aithough badly injured his condition is not considered serious.

Yesterday Coroner Patterson held an inquest on the remains of Thomas H. Fayman, the poetal clerk, burned in the accident. The corpse was placed in an upper room of the depot where the inquest was held. The following jury was summoned: E. K. Newton, foreman; James Reagan, Thomas E. Young, Lewis Benjamin, Wm. J. Spence, Wm. J. Armstrong, Wm. M. McClauley, J. W. Richardson, Albintus Knowiton, Charles T. Krause, N. Kanfiman, B. B. Smith.

J. W. Michardson, Albintus Knowlton, Charles T. Krause, N. Kaufiman. B. B. Smith.

Mr. Henry Freeburn, ongineer of the New York train, was sworn, and testified that he was running about 25 miles an hour when he caught sight of the switch target at Benning's: saw the larget was witch target at Benning's: saw the target with his white light; thought from the latter fact that the switch was right; did not know that the switch was wrong until the engine passed on to the wrong track; a freight train, with engine headed southward, was standing about 160 yards from the Baltimore and Potomac track on the Baltimore and Ohio track; tried to stop, and succeeded in reducing speed to about 25 miles, but struck the other engine; witness jumped off when the engine struck, and the mail car, having tolescoped the express car half way, was on fire from one end to the other inside of five minutes; saw the remains of deceased in the flames, and hooked them out; was told by others who had been in the car that when they left they called to deceased, but got no answer; the train on the Baltimore and Ohio road was in proper position, walting for the train North to pass, but the switchman appears to have opened the switch for the Baltimore and Potomac train; the switchman appears to have opened the switch ior the Baltimore and Potomac rallroad, and his business was to let the Baltimore and Ohio trains on the Baltimore and Potomac rack; he had no business to signal the train north, but the white light be held signified safety; the switchman put the key in the telegraph office and disppeared; was within thirty yards of the switch when he discovered the target was wrong, and did everything to cheek up, putting on the brakes and using the sand lever.

The next witness sworn was Edward K. S. Plant, who testified to his being in the mail car at the time of the accident; felt the car jumping, and supposed they were applying the air-brake, and a leilow-clerk, John F. Smith, told him to jump for the stringers, and he jumped on the lance and was THE TESTIMONY. ump for the stringers, and he jumped on table; then the end of the car went in, and deceased was crushed against the table, and wit-ness was pushed down, but witness got out; the deceased was crushed against the end of the luble; heard twoor three greans and all was still; all were at work at the time, for it was a very heavy mail.

John Steck, a postal clerk, testified that he John Stock, a postal cierk, testified that he was thrown against the side door of the car when the crash came, and Mr. Plant assisted to got him out; the deceased was mashed up against the case by the table.

Capt. G. W. Hambright testified that he was conductor of the New York night express, and at the time was on the rear car; went forward; found the engineer at his post; saw the express messengers (four in number) and postal clerks getting the origineer at his post; saw the express messengers (four in pumber) and postal clerks getting out, and going back to the passenger cars found them sate; telegraphed to the superintendent to send an engine, as his train was on fire; told the passengers as to what had occurred, and told them that unless the cars were cut loose they would all be destroyed; asked for assistance and received it, and they were all got away from the burning cars; the switchman could not be found, but had thrown the keys into the office and left.

James BicComb, conductor, who took the Midland train through, testified that the New York train was one minute late at Bonning's, and corroborated the testimony as to the switchman showing a white light and to the postal car to save deceased, but was obliged to leave to save himself.

My E. L. De Barry, superintendent, testified himself.

Mr. E. L. Du Barry, superintendent, testified that the switchman, Nolne, had been employed for two weeks; believed that he was a competent

THE VERDICT. The case was then giver to the jury, who re-turned the following verdica: "that the deceased came to his death, between 9 and 10 o'clock, on the night of the 7th instant, by reasons of in-juries received in a collision on the side track near Benning's station; and they further find that the accident was the result of carclessness or negligence en the part of the switch tender at the aforesaid station." Thomas Boyler, the fireman, was badly burned about the knees and shoulders, and when the cellision occurred was wedged up in the box, but was relieved.

AMOUNT OF DAMAGE.

It is thought that the coin in the United States Treasury cheet is safe, but the impression is that all the notes were destroyed, as the chests were heated to white heat.

The burning of the postal car destroyed such letters as were sent from Georgetown in the 7:30 p. m. mail, and those sent from Washington in the 9 o'clock mail. All letters of importance in these mails should be duplicated. The mails for the West, Northwest and Southwest wont on the Baltimore and Ohio ratiread, and are all right, and not included in the calamity.

The circulars sent out by the Comptroller of the Currency calling for an exhibit of the condition of national banks at the close of business on the list of December last were destroye ! by the burning of the postal car. These calls will be duplicated at once. Some four hundred thousand doilars in new national bank notes sent from the Comptroller's office were also burned. It is possible that a large portion of these notes may be identified. Between two and three hundred thoursand deliars of legal tenders and fractional currency, which was sent to the assistant treasurer at New York, and to the national depositories in the North and East, were also destroyed. AMOUNT OF DAMAGE.

OLD HICKORY'S VICTORY.

CELERRATION BY THE DEMOCRATIO JACKSON ASSOCIATION.

LINCOLN HALL CROWDED-THE RESOLU-TIONS-GEN. SHERIDAN DENOUNCED-IMPEACHMENT OF THE PRESIDENT DE-MANDED - LETTERS AND SPEECHES-LOUISIANA THE THEME OF DISCUSSION. The celebration of Old Hickory's victory over the British at New Orleans, January 8, 1815, is claimed by the Democracy of this section as a le-gal heritage, and the accorded right to celebrate t in their own way has never been denied. When Jonah D. Hoover was alive, he used to be the macister ceremoniarum of the affair, and in those days "fo' de war," it was the custom to celebrate the historical and brilliant event by a grand banquet at some principal hotel, though either the National or Metropolitan was selected. Such a ban-quet celebration was arranged, as a usual thing, for about one hundred and fifty Democrats of the better sort, all elegantly costumed in clawham mers, white chokers, &c., and no banquet was complete without the presence of Jeremiah Black and Francis P. Blair, sr. With the war, however, and Francis P. Blair, sr. With the war, however, this time-honored custom fell into desuctude, and of late years Jackson has been permitted to rest in his grave in peace on the 8th of January.

The late Democratic victories at the polls revived the slumbering fires of the Democratic Jackson Association, and with it the hopes of many a Democratic fossil of the past pliceane period, while, at the same time, they scared several innocents, who for a long time have been industriously sucking Government pap, home to the ancient and time-honored roost. The result, the passage of a resolution te again

CELEBRATE THE DAYS, and to raise three hundred dollars for the patriotic purpose. It would not do to make it an exclusive affair. The "oil polloi," the dwellers on the outer Democratic periphery, must have a finger in the pie when it was opened to the music of the bend. So Lincoin hall was engaged, and by 8:30 o'clock last evening every inch of the reating and standing room was engaged. The president of the association,

ME. JOHN Z. NORRIS, a veteran and consistent Democrat, presided with a good deal of susvity and as much dignity as the circumstances would permit. He was seated on a stage slimly and efficiently decorated with pink, blue and white cambric stripes, having at its back, resting on an American flag, a portrait of Jacason, with the motto, "Jackson Democratic Association, organized 1820." Each side of the stage and its arch were festioned with streamers made of cambric. On the wall left of the stage was a large shield bearing the inscription: "January 8, 1818; Democracy; Andrew Jackson; Louisiana saved by the valor of American soldiers; Liberty, patriotism, justice, home rule, hard momey and prosperity." On the wall at the right was the inscription: "January 8, 1878; Louisiana oppressed by military despotism: Fraud, nepotism, carpet-baggers, shin-plasters and prostration."

Seated on the stage with Mr. Norris were Co-ME. JOHN E. NORRIS, construction. The state of the leans and Andrew Jackson cannot fail to touch all hearts when mentioned together. The sages and herces of nations form a chief part of their excellence. In Andrew Jackson were concentrated all noble qualities. Never was a leader so environed with difficulties as he on the day he won immortal bornage. The magnitude and importance of his victory cannot be fully estimated new at a distance of sixty years. The British navy was vexing our coast, and our military had not gained important victories. The capital of the nation had been laid in ashes. It was then our hero appeared, and with an army imperfect in organization and equipment he turned back the tide of disaster, and impired the people with renewed confidence.

the lide of disaster, and inspired the people with renswed confidence.

Andrew Jackson now appears in a new light, one more important now than ever before. Flushed with victory he submitted himself to an street from a petry judge. See the contrast. How is it in 1875? We see a little petry tyrant down there, trampling upon the Constitution and all law, and assaulting a Legislature and driving it from its halls. It is the first duty of a general to yield to the law. Gen. Jackson had as much power as this little popplinjay General, but he did not exercise it. The country was in a state of war. Jackson would have had the right to resist the court, but he did not, though he would have been justified in doing so. It was several years after that before Jackson's fine was remitted.

This association has been forty-five years in exto make such regulations with the several railroad or other transportation companies doing business in the District of Columbia, relative to the transportation of foreign corpses through the same, where no valid permit accompanies the remains, as, in his judgment, may best facilitate such transportation without endangering the public health; provided, that all instructions given by him of a permanent character shall be submitted to the board for approval.

The report was adopted.

The premises Nos. 40 and 42 Water street, and house situated on the west side of Market space, Georgetown, were declared nuisances, and the health officer ordered to abate them.

Mr. John P. Dennis applied for a position as sandtary inspector.

At this point the Metropolitan club, headed by asm:

Resolved, That in commemorating this day and the deeds of valor of Andrew Jackson, the hero of that brilliant victory, we have not lost sight of the prowess and daring of the American soldiers whom he commanded, and whose noble deeds performed on that occasion will shine with continued light adown our history.

Resolved, That we remember with lively satisfaction and pride the former prosperity of our common country, and to the principles of the Democratic party, under the guidance of Jefferson, Madison and Jackson, as well as other immortal leaders, we owe all we possess of glory and success as a Federal Union of States.

Resolved, That the past and present depressed condition of the country, its commercial, financial, agricultural and masufacturing interests, calls for enlightened statesmanshis, and, as the Republican party is responsible for the present state of affairs, and, by its policy, incapable of restoring order out of the existing chaos, the only hope of the country is in selecting men for office and places of trust who are in sympathy with the people, and who will not become the plant tools of menopolies, such as are now, through Congressional subsidies, oppressing and robbing the people, making the rich richer and the poor poorer.

Resolved, That the cause of one State is the cause of all, and if the Chief Executive of the Federal Government can determine the rights of members of one State Legislature to scats in its respective legislative bodies, then may he determine the poilited and partisan character of Resolved, That in commemorating this day and cause of all, and if the Chief Executive of the Federal Government can determine the rights of members of one State Legislature to seats in its respective legislative bodies, then may he determine the political and partisan character of the Legislatures in all the States, and ere long the great States of New York and Pennsylvanis, like Louisiana, may lie prostrate at the feet of a military despot, and constitutional liberty be lost, and lost forever.

Resched, That in view of the alarming condition of political affairs in our country, and especially in the State of Louisiana, the birthplace of the scenes and military schievements which we have men to commemorate, we do most carnestly commend to the people of the Federal Union the words of General P. H. Sheridan in stigmatizing his fellow countrymen of the State of Louisiana and other Southern States of this Union as "assa-sins and bandits" he has diagraced and defamed the honorable name of the American soldier, and we unite with all liberty-loving American elitions in denounding his acts as the acts of a potty tyrant, prompted and approved by the present national Administration.

Resolved, That we cannot suppress the utterance of our serious reflections to the good people of the United States that the same beautiful State of Louisiana that was assaulted by an invading soldiery in the year 1816, under the orders of a British commander in time of war, and was defended by Andrew Jackson and his patriotic forces, is now, in the year 1816, under the command of a United States military officer, acting under the beheats of the Executive of the Federal G.vernment, and that said conduct is revolutionary, unwarranted, tyrannical and subversive of the vital dectrines of the Constitution, antagonistic to the genius of our institutions, and fatal to the liberty of the people and the sovereignty of the Sates. Speeches were made in support of the resolutions by Senators Saulsbury and Hogy, and Representatives Whitchead and Harris, of Virginia, was introduced by the chairman a Robbins and Vance, of North Carolina, and Parker, of New Hampshite.

Hon. John P. Harris, of Virginia, was introduced by the chairman as the last speaker. He said no man excelled him in admiration for the Government, but he did not wish to see its chief officer pervert the privileges of office to his personal aggrandizement. He thought that Grant and Phil. Sheridan compared poorly with General Jackson. He said that General Jackson would say to Phil. Sheridan, if he were present in Louisiana to-day, "You little bob-tailed aristocrat, I'll throw you into the Mississippi river," and when he should throw him in, he would make no more no-se than a second-class builfrog.

He thanked Ged that the time was coming when military despotism would be overthrown, as the old Democratic party had been resurrected. Mr. Norris then thanked the audience for their Mr. Norris then thanked the audience for their patience and attention and adjourned the meet-ing. Three cheers were given for the Jackson Democratic Association, and they responded by giving three cheers for the Metropolitan club. Letters regretting inability to be present were read from Senstors elect Eaton, of Councellout, and Withers, of Virginia; Governor Garland, of Arkansas; Mr. McEnery, of New Orleans, and others.

Speeches were made by Senators Saulabory and Begy and Representatives Robbins and Vance. of North Carolins; Parker, of New Hampshire; John P. Harris and Mr. Whitehead, of Virginia. Mr. Robbins' speech was eloquent and effective.

We regret inability to make room for full reports of these speeches, for they were fall of points the Republican party might ponder with profit.

GRAPE CULTURE-THE PROFITS. To the Editor of the National Republican; Sin: In your issue of a few days ago I find words upon grape culture which are fitted to mislesd the unwary. The writer states the profits from an acre to be from $1,000 to $5,000. If any man in this lattinds depends upon such state-ments he will be greatly disappointed. Nothing is more precarious in this climate than the cul-ture of grapes. Take twenty years together, the not profits per acre may be set down as $150 and this probably is too large a calculation. This business, like all things new, is liable to be a source of disappointment to many. Oharos, words upon grape culture which are fitted to

THE THEATRE COMIQUE. The excellent performance at the Theatr Comique meets with the approbation it deserves THE SCHLIECKER CONCERT. Willard hall was well filled with a select an appreciative audience last evening to listen to the classical concert given by the talented young musiciense, Miss Florence Schliecker, and sev-eral other young Washington favorities.

FORD'S OPERA HOUSE-UNDINE. This afternoon and evening afford the last re naing opportunities for seeing the gorgeous fair; spectacle of Undine and the wonderful special sts in their perfect acts. G. L. Fox as Humpty Dumpty next week.

GOV. ARNY'S LECTURE. The free lecture to be given at Lincoln hall this evening by Gov. W. F. M. Arny will, undoubtedly, attract a large audience. The subject, "The Atteracts of the Rocky mountains," is a most interesting one, and will be rendered ad-ditionally attractive by some Navajo Indians, who will supplement Gov. Arny's remarks by discussing it in their own language.

THE NATIONAL THEATRE. To night will be performed for the last time the beautiful drama of Uncle Tom's Cabin, with the mirth-provoking, mischievous Topsy in all her originality, played by the only living genuine representative of the character, viz.: Mrs. G. C. Howard. There will be a matinee, commencing at 2 p. m., for the benefit of ladies and children. Olive Logan next week.

MRS. J. G. SAVILLE. The many friends in Washington of Mrs. J. G. Saville will be pleased with the intelligence that this estimable and talented lady has not She has been devoting her time to severe his-trichle studies, under competent masters, and in addition to this, Mrs. Saville has written a drama in four act. It is of the Mary Warner school, and has been pronounced by scholars and the best dramatic critics of New York a drama powerful in construction, elegant in lan-guage, effective in situation, and as possessing every requisite element of success. We shall look very requisite element of success. We shall look or the early production of the drama in New Yerk with eager expectation, and hope to wit-less its representation here during the season. CHURCH CONCERT.

The concert given at the Congregational church last evening in aid of the purchase of an organ for St. Matthew's church was a gratifying success. The programme of selections from eminent cess. The programme of selections from eminent composers was well rendered throughout. The bonors of the evening were shared in by Mr. Gannen and Miss Kate Goodall. The latter has a soprano voice of remarkable clearness, fiexibility and range, and gives to its possessor an ease in the execution of the most difficult vocalism that is greatly to be prized. Her singing from the first act of Ernani provoked great applause, and was followed by an encore, when she sang with great feeling and artistic preception, Gounod's serenade. Certainly our city should be proud of such rising talent, which, if well directed, cannot fail to rank this young and gifted lady among the most illustrious prime donne. David's Penijoodall, who accompanied her sister, attracted considerable attention by her skillful instrumen

Y. M. C. A. READING-ROOM. CRITICISM UPON BISHOP PINKNEY'S

SERMON. To the Editor of the National Republican: Sin: Last Sunday evening I had the privilege of listening to a most eloquent sermon, addressed by Bishop Pinckney to young men, at the Church of the Incarnation, closing with an earnest recom-mendation to the guild of that parish to take measures for establishing a library and reading room. The rector added a few words in inderse-ment of the Bishop, expressing his serrow that "this city was without a rendezvous for young men where they could find home-like influences and pure associations," and urging the speedy to auguration of the enterprise. Now, while it may be a desirable thing that this parish have a read-ing-room, I desire to protest against the premises ing-room, I desire to protest against the premises on which it is sought to advocate its necessity. Is it possible that these good men have mover heard of the Y. M. C. A. and their library, reading-room and comfortable, well-lighted parlors, where all are welcome? Or is it possible that, since this association is not managed by members of the Anglican communion, it is not deemed sufficiently orthodox in its methods to present a barrier against the entertainments of the billiardaloon and the sample-room? Would not the guild accomplish more by uniting their forces with this well-established organization?

While I yield to no one in sympathy for any move that will throw safeguards around our sorely-tempted youth, I cannot but feel that to studiously ignors so well-known an institution, seemingly for no other reason than that it is not distinctively committed to the Episcopal Unroh, savors too much of that narrow exclusivumes, not to say suchbishness, which is so heavy a weight on the energies of that Church in these days.

FINAL BURIAL OF COMMANDER WM. B. CUSHING.

BECOMING OBSEQUIES FOR THE ILLUS-TRIOUS DEAD - SIDE BY SIDE WITH CLASSMATES AND COMRADES HE IS LAID-SKETCH OF THE CEREMONIES. Yesterday morning as the sun was making its depot. In an ambulance was the remains of the late Commander W. B. Cushing, which were the depot the box containing the body was covered with the American flag and lifted from the vehicle by six saliors, who had been detailed from the navy yard for the purpose, and placed on board the train bound for Annapolis, as it was decided to bury the dead hero where he first received instructions in the service that he has since so brilliantly honored. At 7a. m. the train started, with the widow of the deceased officer, Paymaster Rt. B. Cushing, his brother; Mr. and Mrz. Battle, the brother-in-law and sister of Sirs. Cushing; Dr. T. Hiland, U. S. N., and the body bearers. Commodore Patterson, the commandant of the navy yard, was unable to be present in consequence of press of official business and the illness of Mrs. Patterson and their daughter. Upon the arrival of the train at the Annapolis junction the body was carefully lifted out and borne to the train bound for Annapolis, where it strived at 9:50 o'clock. ered with the American flag and lifted from the

Upon the arrival of the train at the Annapolis junction the body was carefully lifted out and borne to the train bound for Annapolis, where it arrived at 9:30 o'clock.

Rear Admiral Hoogers, superintendent of the Naval Academy, was in waiting at the depot with the officers of the academy and a detachment of marines and sailors to receive the remains. When they were placed on the platform the carket was removed from the box and borne to the hearse, the band in the meantime playing a dirge and the marines presenting arms. The funeral escort, under the command of Captain Farquhar, then formed as follows: Naval Academy band, battalion of marines, under the command of Captain McLane Tilton; the hearse, surrounded by the pall-bearers; carriages containing the family and friends, which were followed by a detail of sailors from the United States ships Santee, Dale and Phlox, and the officers of the academy in reversed order of rank. The funeral then moved along West street around the circle at St. Ann's church, passed the Governor's mansion, down Maryland avenue, up Prince Georae's street, down Tabernacie street, and thence to the cemetery. When the procession arrived near the cemetery the casket was taken from the, hearse and placed in a position ready for lowering it into the grave that had been prepared. The Hev. John R. Anathews, chaplain of the academy, then read the burial services of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and the body was lowered into its final resting place, which is a beautiful spot overlooking the river and the academy.

Beside the grave of Commander Cushing lay the remains of Commander C. W. Flusser and Liceutenant S. W. Preston, who were his companions in arms during life. They sleep in the shadow of their alma mater; their names have passed into history.

Among the officers present were Gov. Groome, of Maryland, Rear Admiral Rodgers, Captain Edward Terry, Lieutenant Commanders F. E. Chadwick, an. 2 John Schouler, Lieutenant Potter, Surgeon G. A. Bright, Passed Assistant Echanyariand, Rear Admira erps.

Every mark of respect that could possibly be paid to Mrs. Cushing and the friends who accompanied her was accorded by Admirai Rodgers and the officers of the academy.

When the train reached Millerswille, about half way between Annapolis and the junction, Lieutenant Commander A. S. Barker, a relative of Commander Cushing, came on board and tendered the hospitalities of Lieutenant Charles C. Ceruwell's house, with whom he is stooping, to Mrs. Cushing and friends, and they were accepted. Upon the arrival of the train Admiral R dgers invited the party to his quarters, but they were reluctantly compelled to decline the invitation. After the return from the grave the family retired to the residence of Lieutenaut Cornwell, where that officer and Mrs. Cornwell and Lieutenant Commander Barker did everything to make their stay as pleasant as possible under the circumstances, and at 3:30 they took the train for this city, where they arrived at 5:50 p. m.

CITY ITEMS.

THAT ENEMY OF MANKIND, Consumption, can be cared; but it is far better to prevent the cruel disease from fastening itself on the system by the timely use of a remedy like Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry. Fifty cents and one dollar a bottle; large bottles much the cheaper.

IF A MAN WANTS A BOTTLE OF WHISKY IF A MAR WANTS A BOTTLE OF WHISEY
let him him buy it and take it home like a man, and not sneak home with a bottle of "Bitters," or "Cordial," and pretend that it is medicine. If he wants a tonic that is something better tt.an a temporary stimulant, he should get a bottle of Peruvian Syrup, (an Iron Tonic,) that will vitalitse the blood and give durable strength to the system.

SAVE YOUR DOCTOR'S BILLS. When Dr. Wistur's Balsam of Wild Cherry will cure coughs, colds, bleeding at the lungs, and arrest the fell destroyer, Consumption, it does more than most physicians can do The use of a single bottle will satisfy the incredulous that they need look no further for the required aid. Fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, large bottles much the cheaper.

SCHENCE'S PULMONIC STRUP, SEA WEED TONIC AND MANDRARE FILLS. These deservedly celebrated and popular medicines have effected a revolution in the healing art, and proved the fallacy of several maxims which have for many years obstructed the progress of medical science. The false supposition that "consumption is incurable" deterred physicians from attempting to find remedies for that disease, and patients afflicted with it recondited themselves to death without making an effort to escape from a doom which they supposed to be unavoidable. It is now proved, however, that consumption can be cured, and that it has been cured in a very great number of cases (some of escape from a doom which they supposed to be unavoidable. It is now proved, however, that consumption can be cured, and that it has been cured in a very great number of cases (some of them apparently desperate ones) by Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup alone, and in other cases by the sume medicine in connection with Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic and Mandrake Fills, one or both, according to the requirements of the case.

Dr. Schenck himself, who enjoyed uninterrupted good health for more than forty years, was supposed at one time to be at the very gate of death, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly affected have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success. success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Dr. Schenck, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his principal office, corner Sixth and Arch streets, Philadelphia, every Monday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. Schenck's medicines are sold by all druggists. THOUSANDS HAVE BEEN CHANGED by the use of the Peruvian Syrup (a protoxide of iron) from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy, and happy men and women, and invalide cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial. For Dyspopsia and Debility it is aspecific.
